

$12,000 LITTLE FOR TROUSSEAU.

Miss Bell's Allowance, According to New York Dressmakers, Is a Very Modest One.

EASY TO SPEND MORE.

Many American Girls Spend as Much for a Single Wedding Veil, the Same Sum for a Gown.

By the decree of the Supreme Court Miss Henrietta Bell, the heiress of her grandfather, Isaac Bell, was allowed $12,000 for her trousseau for her marriage to Count Paul D'Armont, which was solemnized in Paris yesterday.

The sum of $12,000, so leading dressmakers of New York declare, is a very modest sum for a fashionable bride to set aside for her wedding outfit. As much may be spent for a single coat lined with Russian sable or for a wedding veil. For lace and furs, these arbiters of New York fashion say, determine the value of a trousseau.

They admit that with careful management $12,000 will equip a fashionable bride with the requisite number of gowns, coats, hats and the minor accessories of a wedding outfit, but the money must be in good hands.

To ascertain just what the requirements of a fashionable bride are and how $12,000 could be made to cover the expenses of her outfit an Evening World reporter visited the leading dressmakers of the city yesterday.

Didn't Impress Them.

As a matter of fact, they were not at all impressed by $12,000. They all agreed that it might be made to do, but they were equally unanimous in declaring that it was by no means an excessive allowance. Many a wedding veil worn by brides of the last few seasons, they said, was worth fully that sum, and there have been instances where a beautiful and well-dowered bride spent as much for her bridal gown as Miss Bell has set aside for her entire trousseau.

The following estimate of a bridal outfit to cost not more than $12,000 was furnished by Miss O'Donnell, of No. 12 East Forty-first street:

Six evening gowns, four of them averaging $200 apiece, and two more elaborate creations at $400 apiece.....	$1,200
Six day gowns, six averaging $200, and two at $400.....	1,800
Three street gowns at $200 apiece.....	600
Six reception gowns.....	1,800
Six coats (one of them made of fur).....	2,400
Twelve hats at $100 apiece.....	1,200
Lingerie and sundries.....	2,000
Total.....	$12,000

Bargains in Paris.

"One can get a very good outfit for $12,000," said Miss O'Donnell, "especially if, like Miss Bell, one has lived a long time in Paris and knows just where to go. Quite recently I bought a beautiful trousseau for a fashionable bride for $7,000."

"Then, to be properly dressed for the house, a woman should have at least eight tea gowns, four of them very elaborate creations and two simple little negligees, costing, perhaps, not more than $100 apiece."

"Street gowns of tailor-made costumes, perhaps three."

"Oh, no!" exclaimed Miss O'Donnell. "You can't get a good street gown for that sum; $100 or $200 is a fair price."

"Then there are the reception gowns of velvet, crepe de chine and embroidered cloth. These, allowing the minimum of six gowns, would come to $1,800."

"There must be half a dozen wraps, including an opera cloak, fur lined. That makes $3,000 more."

AUGUSTUS PITOU BETTER.

Noted Theatrical Manager Is Now Convalescent.

Augustus Pitou, a well-known theatrical manager, is recovering from a serious illness at his home, No. 57 West Seventy-fifth street.

Mr. Pitou, who for many years was manager of the Grand Opera-House, is now interested in road companies. He went to Minneapolis and St. Paul for the opening of Chauncey Olcott's season, and when he returned two weeks ago he was taken ill.

Dr. E. Elliott Harris, who was in attendance, performed an operation on Mr. Pitou for the removal of a carbuncle last Sunday.

Mr. Pitou has gained rapidly since the operation, and expects to return to his office within a week.

DIPLOMATIC CHANGES.

Ambassador McCormick Goes to Russia and Storer to Austria.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Following the announcement of the transfer of Ambassador Charlesman Tower, of Pennsylvania, from Russia to Germany, these changes in the diplomatic service have been made:

Robert S. McCormick, of Illinois, now Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, transferred to Russia.

William Storer, of Ohio, now Minister to Spain, transferred to Austria-Hungary.

Arthur S. Hardy, of New Hampshire, now Minister to Switzerland, transferred to Spain.

Charles Page Bryan, of Illinois, Minister to Brazil, transferred to Switzerland.

David S. Thompson, of Nebraska, transferred to Brazil.

These appointments are so taken effect when Ambassador White leaves Berlin, in November.

MRS. C. A. FILLBURY DEAD.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 26.—Mrs. C. A. Fillbury, widow of the well-known newspaper editor, died early to-day of pneumonia, aged sixty-seven.

ACTS AS MADMAN ON "L" TRAIN

Panic-Stricken Women and Children Flee Before Hugo Mendelsohn, Demented.

CAPTURED AFTER FIGHT.

In His Wild Race Through Crowded Cars the Crazed Man Knocks Down and Injures Passengers.

Yelling like a madman and knocking down women and children standing in the aisles of a downtown Third avenue "L" train, Hugo Mendelsohn, a commercial traveler, of No. 321 East Eighty-fourth street, created a panic to-day.

During the rush hours Mendelsohn boarded a train at Eighty-fourth street and took a seat in one of the rear cars. He sat quietly enough until the train pulled out of the Thirty-fourth street station.

Women Knocked Down. Jumping to his feet, he rushed to the door of the car and threw to the street a leather valise he was carrying. Screaming at the top of his voice, he ran through the train. Women standing in the aisles were knocked down and trampled on. Brushing aside men who tried to stop him, Mendelsohn ran to the front car, where he fell to the floor.

In all the cars through which the man had passed women and children rushed toward the doors. The guards had great difficulty in preventing them from jumping from the train.

The screams of the women passengers on the train could be plainly heard in the street below, above the roar of the train.

After quieting the women and other passengers the guards went to the front car to take charge of Mendelsohn. He was fighting and struggling. It required the efforts of five men to hold him.

When the train reached the Twenty-eighth street station Policeman Ditch and other patrolmen were summoned by the engineer blowing his whistle.

Subdued After Struggle. After a struggle they subdued Mendelsohn and sent him to Bellevue Hospital in an ambulance. He said he could not account for his actions and believed he had been suddenly crazed.

After remaining at the hospital a short time he was given some medicine and went to his place of business.

Many of the passengers left the train when it reached Twenty-eighth street, fearing that the man had not been put off. These were compelled to witness his struggles with the policemen.

Black Kersey Monte Carlo Coats, Double capes, strapped with satin, velvet collars and cuffs.

12.50

Black Kersey Monte Carlo Coats, Double capes, strapped with satin, velvet collars and cuffs.

18.50

Velour coats, with postilion backs and epaulettes cape or trimmed with lace and Persian lamb. Lined with white silk.

29.50 and 35.00

Twenty-third Street.

Went from Store to Store in Harlem Filling a Wagon with Plunder.

POLICEMEN NON SUNT.

Burglars executed a general clean-up of the business block in Eighth avenue between One Hundred and Twenty-fourth and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth streets. In the rear is a courtyard on a level with the basement floors. Around the courtyard is a series of sheds, whose roofs are on a level with the iron-barred rear windows of the stores.

Gate Was Forced. Entrance to this courtyard was gained by the thieves through an alley leading from One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street. The entrance to this alley is barred by a locked gate, which was forced.

Inside the courtyard the burglars found a ladder, which they used in climbing to the roof of the shed in the rear of the cigar and notion store of Leo Bing, at No. 2261 Eighth avenue. Here they obtained $1,000 worth of cigars and musical instruments and 100 fountain pens, valued at $3 each.

The bars on Bing's windows were pried off with a crowbar. Armed with this the burglars went the length of the block over the shed roofs, tying the windows of all the stores. They were unable to gain entrance until they got around to the Eagle Wine and Liquor Company, at No. 276 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Here they pried off the bars, entered and forced the cash drawer. There was less than $1 in it, which they took. They also took whiskey in cases to the value of about $50.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed. Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the burglars at work and went downstairs, but they had taken alarm and fled, leaving about half the Smith stock stacked up on the floor ready for removal.

They must have had a wagon in One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street near the alley entrance to carry off all the stuff they stole. The victimized store was wondering how the burglars, working on three beats, clambered all over the courtyard, rifled stores in which lights were burning and got away with a wagonload of plunder without attracting the attention of a policeman.

SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Mrs. Risley Is Dying and He Is Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Judson A. Risley, thirty-five years old, shot his wife at their home, No. 12 King street, to-day and then killed himself. Risley was a night watchman.

When found by their two children Mrs. Risley was lying on the bed shot in the temple, while her husband lay at her feet. Mrs. Risley was taken to the city hospital. She is expected to die.

Risley left a letter which was not made public.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed.

Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the

The "AutoPede" $3.50 SHOE for MEN

Sold Only by
GUARANTEE CLOTHING CO.,
Uptown Corner 127th St. and 31 Ave.

We have always maintained a Men's Shoe Department in this store of ours—up-to-date shoes, good value shoes—and sold them to satisfied thousands. But never has a shoe so worthy of mention come under our notice as the "AutoPede" shoe for $3. We want to let you know the confidence we feel in placing this shoe on the market—no better shoe exists, nor can any better shoe be made than the "AutoPede" shoe. Shoes that you pay $4 and $5 for are not a whit better. Every stitch of the "AutoPede" shoe is true. Every shoe is fashioned on a last—a more costly process of shoemaking—but it means long life to a shoe; the toes don't cave in as in cheap shoes. They come in Velour Calf Box Calf, Guaranteed Patent Leather and Vici Kid. All sizes, all widths.

Try a pair at $3. You'll save $2.

Guarantee Clothing Co.
Uptown Cor. 127th and 3d Ave.

JAMES MCGREERY & CO.

Cloak Dept.

Black mountenak coats, semi-fitted or box back. Lined with satin. 27 inches long.

12.50

Black Kersey Monte Carlo Coats, Double capes, strapped with satin, velvet collars and cuffs.

18.50

Velour coats, with postilion backs and epaulettes cape or trimmed with lace and Persian lamb. Lined with white silk.

29.50 and 35.00

Twenty-third Street.

CROOKS CLEAN OUT A BLOCK

Went from Store to Store in Harlem Filling a Wagon with Plunder.

POLICEMEN NON SUNT.

Burglars executed a general clean-up of the business block in Eighth avenue between One Hundred and Twenty-fourth and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth streets. In the rear is a courtyard on a level with the basement floors. Around the courtyard is a series of sheds, whose roofs are on a level with the iron-barred rear windows of the stores.

Gate Was Forced. Entrance to this courtyard was gained by the thieves through an alley leading from One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street. The entrance to this alley is barred by a locked gate, which was forced.

Inside the courtyard the burglars found a ladder, which they used in climbing to the roof of the shed in the rear of the cigar and notion store of Leo Bing, at No. 2261 Eighth avenue. Here they obtained $1,000 worth of cigars and musical instruments and 100 fountain pens, valued at $3 each.

The bars on Bing's windows were pried off with a crowbar. Armed with this the burglars went the length of the block over the shed roofs, tying the windows of all the stores. They were unable to gain entrance until they got around to the Eagle Wine and Liquor Company, at No. 276 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Here they pried off the bars, entered and forced the cash drawer. There was less than $1 in it, which they took. They also took whiskey in cases to the value of about $50.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed.

Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the burglars at work and went downstairs, but they had taken alarm and fled, leaving about half the Smith stock stacked up on the floor ready for removal.

They must have had a wagon in One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street near the alley entrance to carry off all the stuff they stole. The victimized store was wondering how the burglars, working on three beats, clambered all over the courtyard, rifled stores in which lights were burning and got away with a wagonload of plunder without attracting the attention of a policeman.

SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Mrs. Risley Is Dying and He Is Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Judson A. Risley, thirty-five years old, shot his wife at their home, No. 12 King street, to-day and then killed himself. Risley was a night watchman.

When found by their two children Mrs. Risley was lying on the bed shot in the temple, while her husband lay at her feet. Mrs. Risley was taken to the city hospital. She is expected to die.

Risley left a letter which was not made public.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed.

Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the burglars at work and went downstairs, but they had taken alarm and fled, leaving about half the Smith stock stacked up on the floor ready for removal.

They must have had a wagon in One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street near the alley entrance to carry off all the stuff they stole. The victimized store was wondering how the burglars, working on three beats, clambered all over the courtyard, rifled stores in which lights were burning and got away with a wagonload of plunder without attracting the attention of a policeman.

SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Mrs. Risley Is Dying and He Is Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Judson A. Risley, thirty-five years old, shot his wife at their home, No. 12 King street, to-day and then killed himself. Risley was a night watchman.

When found by their two children Mrs. Risley was lying on the bed shot in the temple, while her husband lay at her feet. Mrs. Risley was taken to the city hospital. She is expected to die.

JAMES MCGREERY & CO.

Cloak Dept.

Black mountenak coats, semi-fitted or box back. Lined with satin. 27 inches long.

12.50

Black Kersey Monte Carlo Coats, Double capes, strapped with satin, velvet collars and cuffs.

18.50

Velour coats, with postilion backs and epaulettes cape or trimmed with lace and Persian lamb. Lined with white silk.

29.50 and 35.00

Twenty-third Street.

CROOKS CLEAN OUT A BLOCK

Went from Store to Store in Harlem Filling a Wagon with Plunder.

POLICEMEN NON SUNT.

Burglars executed a general clean-up of the business block in Eighth avenue between One Hundred and Twenty-fourth and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth streets. In the rear is a courtyard on a level with the basement floors. Around the courtyard is a series of sheds, whose roofs are on a level with the iron-barred rear windows of the stores.

Gate Was Forced. Entrance to this courtyard was gained by the thieves through an alley leading from One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street. The entrance to this alley is barred by a locked gate, which was forced.

Inside the courtyard the burglars found a ladder, which they used in climbing to the roof of the shed in the rear of the cigar and notion store of Leo Bing, at No. 2261 Eighth avenue. Here they obtained $1,000 worth of cigars and musical instruments and 100 fountain pens, valued at $3 each.

The bars on Bing's windows were pried off with a crowbar. Armed with this the burglars went the length of the block over the shed roofs, tying the windows of all the stores. They were unable to gain entrance until they got around to the Eagle Wine and Liquor Company, at No. 276 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Here they pried off the bars, entered and forced the cash drawer. There was less than $1 in it, which they took. They also took whiskey in cases to the value of about $50.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed.

Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the burglars at work and went downstairs, but they had taken alarm and fled, leaving about half the Smith stock stacked up on the floor ready for removal.

They must have had a wagon in One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street near the alley entrance to carry off all the stuff they stole. The victimized store was wondering how the burglars, working on three beats, clambered all over the courtyard, rifled stores in which lights were burning and got away with a wagonload of plunder without attracting the attention of a policeman.

SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Mrs. Risley Is Dying and He Is Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Judson A. Risley, thirty-five years old, shot his wife at their home, No. 12 King street, to-day and then killed himself. Risley was a night watchman.

When found by their two children Mrs. Risley was lying on the bed shot in the temple, while her husband lay at her feet. Mrs. Risley was taken to the city hospital. She is expected to die.

Risley left a letter which was not made public.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed.

Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the burglars at work and went downstairs, but they had taken alarm and fled, leaving about half the Smith stock stacked up on the floor ready for removal.

They must have had a wagon in One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street near the alley entrance to carry off all the stuff they stole. The victimized store was wondering how the burglars, working on three beats, clambered all over the courtyard, rifled stores in which lights were burning and got away with a wagonload of plunder without attracting the attention of a policeman.

SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Mrs. Risley Is Dying and He Is Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Judson A. Risley, thirty-five years old, shot his wife at their home, No. 12 King street, to-day and then killed himself. Risley was a night watchman.

When found by their two children Mrs. Risley was lying on the bed shot in the temple, while her husband lay at her feet. Mrs. Risley was taken to the city hospital. She is expected to die.

JAMES MCGREERY & CO.

Cloak Dept.

Black mountenak coats, semi-fitted or box back. Lined with satin. 27 inches long.

12.50

Black Kersey Monte Carlo Coats, Double capes, strapped with satin, velvet collars and cuffs.

18.50

Velour coats, with postilion backs and epaulettes cape or trimmed with lace and Persian lamb. Lined with white silk.

29.50 and 35.00

Twenty-third Street.

CROOKS CLEAN OUT A BLOCK

Went from Store to Store in Harlem Filling a Wagon with Plunder.

POLICEMEN NON SUNT.

Burglars executed a general clean-up of the business block in Eighth avenue between One Hundred and Twenty-fourth and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth streets. In the rear is a courtyard on a level with the basement floors. Around the courtyard is a series of sheds, whose roofs are on a level with the iron-barred rear windows of the stores.

Gate Was Forced. Entrance to this courtyard was gained by the thieves through an alley leading from One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street. The entrance to this alley is barred by a locked gate, which was forced.

Inside the courtyard the burglars found a ladder, which they used in climbing to the roof of the shed in the rear of the cigar and notion store of Leo Bing, at No. 2261 Eighth avenue. Here they obtained $1,000 worth of cigars and musical instruments and 100 fountain pens, valued at $3 each.

The bars on Bing's windows were pried off with a crowbar. Armed with this the burglars went the length of the block over the shed roofs, tying the windows of all the stores. They were unable to gain entrance until they got around to the Eagle Wine and Liquor Company, at No. 276 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Here they pried off the bars, entered and forced the cash drawer. There was less than $1 in it, which they took. They also took whiskey in cases to the value of about $50.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed.

Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the burglars at work and went downstairs, but they had taken alarm and fled, leaving about half the Smith stock stacked up on the floor ready for removal.

They must have had a wagon in One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street near the alley entrance to carry off all the stuff they stole. The victimized store was wondering how the burglars, working on three beats, clambered all over the courtyard, rifled stores in which lights were burning and got away with a wagonload of plunder without attracting the attention of a policeman.

SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Mrs. Risley Is Dying and He Is Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Judson A. Risley, thirty-five years old, shot his wife at their home, No. 12 King street, to-day and then killed himself. Risley was a night watchman.

When found by their two children Mrs. Risley was lying on the bed shot in the temple, while her husband lay at her feet. Mrs. Risley was taken to the city hospital. She is expected to die.

Risley left a letter which was not made public.

Pabst Diners Undisturbed.

Next they pried the bars off the windows of Smith's furnishing goods store at No. 274 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. This is next door to the Pabst Music Hall, where a crowd of diners and pleasure-seekers was gathered. The time of the burglary is fixed by Mrs. Jane Wilcox, who lives above the Smith store. She heard the burglars at work and went downstairs, but they had taken alarm and fled, leaving about half the Smith stock stacked up on the floor ready for removal.